Sweeping changes will be implemented at the Calgary Zoo in light of several high-profile animal deaths, but a critic says the problems begin and end at the top of the organization.

Stampede adds advisory panel

Experts to aid in animal care

KRISTA SYLVESTER krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

Animal care at the Calgary Stampede will be strengthened with the addition of a new advisory panel, according to officials.

The new animal care advisory panel is made up of four independent experts, who will evaluate and advise Stampede officials, a move Stampede president and CEO Dr. David Chalack said will make their topnotch animal care even better.

"While we are a recognized leader among our peers for our animal care practices, we want to continue to look for new opportunities to enhance how we care for our animals," Chalack said. But a local animal activist organization says the move won't stop animals from dying at the 10-day rodeo event.

"This is something they are doing to appear proactive but it won't change the fact animals die at the Calgary Stampede every year. They are running scared," Calgary Animal Rights Coalition spokesperson Michael Alvarez-Toye said.

However, Chalack said the addition of Dr. Greg Andrews, Susan Church and Dr. Ed Pajor and Tim Olafson will keep the Calgary Stampede at the forefront of animal care.

Chalack, a veterinarian, said the Stampede meets each year with the Calgary Humane Society and Alberta SPCA to listen to those group's assessments of the annual exhibition.

The Calgary Stampede is implementing an animal advisory panel made up of independent experts to improve the care of rodeo animals.

Bone marrow drive set for hockey player

LEUKEMIA The battle to help save a young Saskatchewan woman fighting leukemia is being brought to Calgary this weekend for a bone marrow drive.

Calgary resident Thomi Olson and a string of volunteers will be swabbing mouths to save Olson's longtime friend Mandi Schwartz, who is in desperate need of a bone marrow or cord blood donor.

"Basically, it's kind of come down to in the next 30 to 60 days they need to find a 10-out-of-10 bone marrow match," said Olson.

Once a prospect for the Canadian women's hockey team, Schwartz was originally diagnosed with cancer in 2008 when she was playing hockey at Yale.

Schwartz was declared in remission earlier this month, but the fight isn't over, said Olson.

"Because her body is so weak from the cancer and from the chemo, I think it's kind of just come down to ... this is what's left to be done," said Olson.

Olson said the goal is to collect 2,000 swabs, which will be sent for analysis for possible donors.

The drive is being held Saturday and Sunday, starting at 8 a.m. in conjunction with the Play On hockey tournament at Deerfoot Outlet Mall.

New morning-after pill closer to market

PHARMACEUTICALS U.S. government health experts said Thursday a new type of morning-after contraceptive that works longer than existing drugs is safe and effective.

The Food and Drug Administration's panel of reproductive health experts voted unanimously that the pill ellaOne successfully reduces the chance of pregnancy up to five days after sex. Plan B, the most widely used emergency contraceptive pill, is only effective if women take it within three days of sex.

In a separate vote the panel unanimously ruled that the drug appeared safe, according to an FDA spokeswoman.

The positive recommendation moves the pill, which is already approved in Europe, one step closer to the U.S. market.

The FDA is not required to follow the panel's advice, though it often does. Studies by the drug's manufacturer, HRA Pharma, showed ellaOne prevented pregnancies longer and more consistently than Plan B.

Experts tracked nearly 1,700 women who received emergency contraception within three to five days of having unprotected sex.

CRIME The UN drug and crime czar warned Thursday that international crime syndicates pose a growing threat to global security and called for a new campaign to disrupt the markets for their illicit goods and activities in rich nations. Antonio Maria Costa told a high-level meeting that demand for illegal drugs, diamonds and other items is fuelling transnational organized crime and while arresting traffickers may divert goods it will not shut them off. 'Therefore, in order to more effectively fight organized crime, we must shift focus from disrupting the mafias to disrupting their markets," he said. "We must also crack down on the accomplices of crime, like the army of whitecollar criminals ... who cover them up and launder their proceeds." UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon said the threat from transnational crime syndicates is growing and the ability of countries to deliver justice "is not evolving as quickly as the criminals' skill at evading justice." As a neighbour tells me gravely: "There are magpies killing robins all over this neighbourhood."

He's got a magpie management plan, as yet undisclosed, to protect his dog's food.

Maybe, like his friend, he'll shoot magpies and hang their corpses in the backyard as a deterrent. Take that bold black and white bird. Black-billed magpies are Calgary's native predators. This month is prime nesting time.

Many people hate them, says Bill Bruce, head of Calgary's bylaw services. "They are noisy, they are robin killers, and will pull babies out of the nest and eat them."

Magpies are aggressive omnivores: Birds, seeds, garbage. Just don't get between them and food.

Under Alberta law, mag-ies are "unclassified pies are wildlife." This means they can be shot and killed without a permit outside city limits.
But within Calgary? Just to be clear: It's against byto discharge firearm, and this includes BB guns and paintball guns.

It's easy to get infected with magpie disdain.

Confession: I once thought they were beautiful. Until I picked up my baby boy at his day home and saw my nanny's husband shooting magpies from his porch.

"Hate the magpies," he said by way of explanation.

Can you be truly Calgarian and like magpies? Probably not.

Maybe our mayoral candidates can learn from the magpies: You may be beautiful, but if you are too aggressive everyone will hate you.

If you steal from our dog's bowls (our hardearned tax money) and kill lovely robins (our parks, paths and recre-ational facilities), public opinion will shift forever. Bruce says real magpies can be managed without firearms. He had a birdhouse in his backyard and removed the small perch from it.

This way, the magpies had no place to land, but small birds could still use it in peace.

As well, he recommends using a garden hose to spray away magpie nests. They will go somewhere else, he advises.

It's Calgarian against the magpie — just this side of the law.

The environmental showpiece of the G8 summit has lost some of its lustre.

World leaders will bask in the glow of only five solar-powered street lights instead of the planned 15 when they arrive in Ontario's cottage country later this month.

The solar lamps are the G8 summit's "signature environmental project." They were supposed to line the pathways of a resort near Huntsville, Ont., during the leaders' onenight stay.

But the lighting company says the tough terrain makes for slow going, and there isn't enough time left to get all 15 lights installed before the summit

The G8 solar lights cost $207,900. The same money could buy almost 14,000 solar-powered Noma garden lights at Canadian Tire. Those lights cost $15 each.

But Bakmand said "this is nothing similar to that." The government award-

"It was basically unreasonable," Bakmand said.

The solar lights will be moved from the resort into the town after the summit as a gift to Huntsville.

"As the Muskoka 2010 G8 summit is being held at a privately owned resort, the signature environmental project will be installed at the Deerhurst Resort for use during the summit only and then gifted to the town of Huntsville for installation at a location within the town,' the document says.

Airline waits for 787

Air Canada's expansion plans dependent on overdue aircraft

Delays by Boeing in delivering its new 787 aircraft have limited Air Canada's ability to expand its international flight map, Canada's largest airline said Thursday.

Air Canada said it has been busy adding new destinations in the United States, Europe and Asia. However, it could have done more to add routes to India and elsewhere in Asia if it had the smaller, longrange Boeing 787.

"It opens up all these route opportunities that normally wouldn't be viable for us," Ben Smith, Air Canada's chief commercial officer, said in an interview.

Mumbai in India and Changzhou in China, for example, don't generate enough traffic for the airline to be profitably serviced using the giant Boeing 777, while the smaller 767 doesn't have enough range.

"A 787 and all of a sudden it becomes interesting," Smith said.

Air Canada has 37 Boeing 787s on order. They were originally supposed to be delivered in 2008, but manufacturing delays have pushed that back to 2013.

The airline believes increasing travel to international destinations, along with a push for higher fares in business class, are keys to sustainable profits.

"We only have 37 per cent of the market share for Canada international (travel), and we think we can do a lot better than that, so you'll see from us a lot more focus and effort in that area," Smith said.

Air Canada operates 10 daily flights from Montreal to Europe and services 11 European destinations in Europe out of Toronto with an average of 13 flights per day.

Economic recovery on track: Minister

ECONOMY Finance Minister Jim Flaherty is encouraged by the response to the European crisis so far and believes more action will be taken at the G20 summit next week.

The finance minister appeared at a Senate committee hearing Thursday defending his budget bill, saying Canada is the envy of the world in terms of its economic health.

Flaherty told the senators that although Canada's economy has bounced back from recession, with a 6.2 per cent growth rate in the first quarter, the country still needs the $19 billion in stimulus spending proposed in the budget.

"We are still in a fragile time," he said.

In an interview with The Canadian Press, the minister said he was more encouraged now than a few weeks ago about the outlook for the global economy following aggressive action by European countries and International Monetary Fund in dealing with the Greek debt crisis.

Habs trade playoff hero

Canadiens send goaltender Halak to Blues for prospects

The Montreal Canadiens have made their goaltending choice — Carey Price stays and playoff hero Jaroslav Halak is off to the St. Louis Blues.

The Canadiens dealt Halak for two young forward prospects Thursday, even though the 25-year-old usurped Price as their starting goaltender late in the NHL season and played brilliantly in leading them to a berth in the Eastern Conference final.

In return, Montreal got centre Lars Eller, who may be ready to play next season, and rugged winger Ian Schultz from the junior Calgary Hitmen, who will likely need seasoning in the minors

Canadiens general manager Pierre Gauthier called it a "big picture decision," in which the team's scouts and managers opted for the long-term potential of the 22-year-old Price, the fifth overall draft pick of 2005, over the more immediate success from the 25-yearold Halak. Halak was the Canadiens' player of the year in 2009-10, when he went 26-13-5 and was fifth among NHL goalies in save percentage at .940 and ninth in goals-against average at 2.40. Price was 13-20-5 with a 2.77 average and a

.912 save percentage.

Both goaltenders are due to become restricted free agents July 1, with Halak holding the right to salary arbitration, but Gauthier didn't try to work out a deal

The Jaroslav Halak trade was widely panned by Habs fans on Twitter and other websites within minutes of its completion. Most felt that Carey Price should have been dealt and, if not, the team should have got more for Halak.

once the team decided to make a trade.

He could have kept both. but Halak indicated in a conference call that would have left both unhappy.

"I think they did the best thing they could do — keep one goalie and give the other one a chance to play most of the season," Halak said from Slovakia. "It's best for everyone that I was dealt and can start on a new beginning."

St. Louis made the trade after informing veteran goalie Chris Mason they would not attempt to sign him to a new contract.

Halak earned $800,000 US last season and is due for a big raise.

VS LIKERS

NBA The Los Angeles Lakers have won their 16th NBA championship, dramatically rallying from a fourth-quarter deficit to beat the Boston Celtics 83-79 Thursday night in Game 7 of the NBA finals.

Kobe Bryant scored 23 points despite 6-of-24 shooting while winning his fifth title with the Lakers, who repeated as NBA champions for the first time since winning three straight from 2000-02.

"This one is by far the sweetest, because it's them," Bryant said. "This was the hardest one by far. I wanted it so bad, and sometimes when you want it so bad, it slips away from you. My guys picked

Ron Artest added 20 points for the Lakers, who shot terribly while trailing for most of the first three quarters.

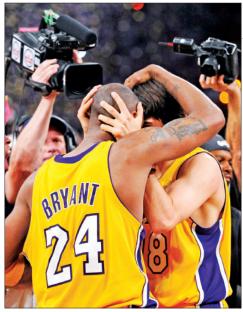

Yet they reclaimed the lead midway through the fourth quarter and hung on with big shots from Pau Gasol and Artest.

"Well, first of all I want to thank everybody in my hood," Artest said in an ABC interview right after the game. "I definitely want to thank my doctors ... my psychiatrist, she re-ally helped me relax a lot." With their fifth title in 11 seasons, the Lakers moved one championship behind Boston's 17 banners for the overall NBA lead.

Paul Pierce had 18 points and 10 rebounds for the Celtics, who just couldn't finish the final quarter of a remarkable playoff run after a fourthplace finish in the Eastern Conference.

GOLF Mike Weir popped the ball out of the tangled rough, then watched it hit the green and fall in the hole for a birdie on No. 16 and sole possession of the U.S. Open lead.

Too bad momentum at Pebble Beach yesterday morning lasted about as long as the trip to the next tee box.

The 2003 Masters champion from Bright's Grove, Ont., followed his great shot with a bogey-bogey finish to wind up at 1-under 70 He was tied for the clubhouse lead with K.J. Choi, Ian Poulter and Rafael Cabrera-Bello after a good opening round that seemed as if it could have been better.

'You don't want to finish a round like that. It's never a good thing," Weir said. "But it wasn't because I was looking at the scoreboard and looking at where I am in the tournament. Because it's Thursday, and I just happened to hit a couple of poor shots."

He wasn't alone. The sun was shining and the wind was blowing on one of America's great courses for the opening round, leading to the spectre of a brittle course and dry, unreceptive greens for Tiger Woods, Lee Westwood, Tom Watson and the rest with afternoon tee times.

"There are areas on a few greens which are very soft and there are areas where I couldn't get a tee peg in to repair a pitch mark," Poulter said.

Woods, who won by a record 15 strokes at Pebble Beach in 2000, got a nice round of applause on the first tee box, then opened play by nearly running his approach shot on No. 1 into the hole. It slithered 12 feet past, though, and he twoputted for one of three straight pars to open his

A week full of drama, emotion at World Cup

nly one week into its run, the World Cup in South Africa has already delivered more drama than a full season of the most popular soap opera.

And here's the difference this is reality TV.

The omnipresent vuvuze-las provide the soundtrack for every match and they never fail to grab the view er's attention play-by-play announcers are forced to create urgency in their narration to be heard above the din. Never has so much emotion been spent on a plastic dollar-store horn.

Ears immediately perk

The gigantic gaffe by English goalkeeper Robert Green is akin to the impending fall of the British Empire ... or so we are led to believe.

How can Green possibly go back in that net? And what if he did and he let in another softie? It would surely be the end of his international career. He would be vilified by the motherland of football. That's serious stuff.

Then there's Diego Maradona, the legendary coach of Argentina who dances and twirls on the sidelines as the new star Lionel Messi prowls the pitch for the Albi Celestes.

It is fascinating to watch as the cameras constantly veer from Messi's brilliant football to the demonstrative and melodramatic Maradona, who becomes the centre of attention as we seemingly wait for his next and perhaps most celebrated meltdown yet.

The South African players come off the bus singing and dancing. It is a joyous solidarity rarely seen in professional sport. And then there are the Italians, who become red-faced and allow tears to flow in the rousing rendition of their national anthem.

There is hugging and crying and the Spanish press refers to a defeat at the hands of Switzerland as a 'national tragedy.'

It's only the first round and there is a long way to go, but already emotions are exceedingly raw.
You have to love it because most of the time we're used to sporting dramas being played out in courtrooms or at union bargaining tables when gigantic contracts are considered.

As the World Cup turns we're looking at something bigger than that. This time all the drama takes place on the field of play.
And that's as it should be.

With Buffon out, it's Marchetti's time to shine

ITALY It's easy to believe Italy's new starting goalkeeper when he says he has luck on his side.

Federico Marchetti had already lost his two best friends to auto accidents when he and two teammates at fourth division side Pro Vercelli emerged uninjured from an auto accident themselves five vears ago.

"When you stare death in the face, it leaves something inside you," Marchetti said Thursday. "It's tough to describe. It was a terrible experience but one that I'll never forget.'

The accident inspired Marchetti to live each day as it comes and take advantage of his chances.

Since the accident, Marchetti has climbed his way to the top division and become a member of Italy's national team.

Now, with first-choice goalkeeper Gianlugi Buffon out due to a herniated disk, the 27-year-old Mar-chetti has the biggest chance of his life in Sunday's World Cup match against New Zealand.

"I'm sure my friends are watching me from up above and that they'll be pleased for me," said Marchetti, who wears the names of his deceased friends in a tattoo on one arm, with a Hail Mary on the other. "I'm convinced someone is watching out for me." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We badly wanted this, because we'd never even scored a goal in the World Cup before," Dimitris Salpingidis said. "I can't say whether we'll make it out of the group. But I can say that we'll leave with our heads held high.'

To advance to the second round, the Greeks almost certainly must get at least a draw with powerful Argentina Tuesday; the Argentines routed South Korea 4-1 Thursday and the Koreans took Greece 2-0 earlier in the tournament. difficult as-

So they are revelling in this victory.

Albertan actor reprises werewolf role

LINA TOYODA for Metro Canada

Landing your first acting role in a major motion picture, let alone a box office hit, is a rare occurrence that takes perhaps just the right alignment of skill. timing and a few lucky

But that's exactly how things panned out for 20-year-old Canadian actor Tyson Houseman, who caught a break and was cast as Quil Ateara in the teen vampire phenomenon known as The Twilight

Saga.

Houseman says he kind of just fell into acting.

"To be completely honest, I was terrified of the idea of acting but whenever I was actually doing it, I was enjoying myself so much. I could get so comfortable be-ing on stage," says Houseman. "It was just the antici-pation building up to it that completely scared the heck out of me. I think one day I realized I really enjoyed that adrenaline that I got from that fear."

in New Moon, the second of four parts in the series. He will reprise his role in the third — and highly anticipated — Eclipse, set for worldwide release at the end of the month.

He says his character has a much bigger role in Eclipse and "imprints" on a female in the film, a wolf pack ritual and rite of passage, something along the lines of "love at first sight" claiming a future mate.

While Houseman enjoyed playing parts in school plays growing up, he never thought it would lead him on the high-profile path he has now found himself on.

Opportunity soon after he made the move to Vancouver to pursue an acting career after graduating high school.

"About four months into this open casting call on Craigslist and they were looking for people who had a Native American background who were between the ages of 15 and 25 and I was like, 'Yeah I fit that description so why not go check it out.'"

Only actors of native descent were cast for members of the wolf pack and Houseman says he feels lucky to have fallen into a character that was similar enough to himself that he could easily relate to.

He did, however, endure some intense training and workout sessions with the rest of the pack to fit the buff and shirtless form in

"It was really intense stuff," Houseman says.

Reed planning life after Twilight saga

NED EHRBAR Metro World News

Actress, writer and L.A. native Nikki Reed is trying to figure out what to do with her life.

And while she's been enjoying the success of the Twilight franchise — in which she co-stars as vam-pire Rosalie — she's also been trying to make the most of the global phenomenon.

"It's sometimes difficult to harness all those things and point it in the right di-rection so that you can get what you want out of this amazing, insane amount of exposure that none of us were really prepared for," she tells Metro.

Of her future, Reed is sure of two things. The first is that she wants to do Quite the opposite, actually. "There's the expecta-tion of, 'Well, you're not just an actress, so what else? What are you going to deliver?'" she explains.

To that end, she's launching a website to collect her other creative pursuits, including photography and directing — Reed recently financed and directed a music video in London for the artist Sage, which she's releasing next month.

"It's just like a place for me to show other aspects of my interests and person-ality that maybe peo-

The A-Team

REVIEW As catchphrases go, "I love it when a plan comes together" is a particular 1980s standout. But fans of the TV series The A-Team might find the new big-screen adaptation a lit-tle frustrating. While Han-nibal (Liam Neeson, stepping into George Peppard's humidor) talks incessantly about plans and the importance of having them and executing them, he never actually utters the famous line. And it's not like he doesn't have the opportu-nity, as this action movie has an overabundance of talk. It's too much plan, and not enough coming together.

The Karate Kid

REVIEW To anyone alive in the 1980s, the Karate Kid legend is a familiar one. In this reboot, Jaden Smith stars in the role Ralph Macchio made a Reagan era icon. The story's been freshened by a move to Beijing but the filmmakers wisely kept the underdog coming-of-age tale front and centre. Smith is the film's centerpiece.

Shrek Forever After

REVIEW The latest — and supposedly last — Shrek film makes a valiant effort of recapturing the tone and spirit of the original Shrek, with more wise-acre takes on fairy tale tropes and fewer obnoxious pop culture references. Tossing on a loose-fitting It's a Wonderful Life coat, the film picks up with Shrek (Mike Myers), Fiona (Cameron Diaz) and company enjoying their "happily ever after," although the ogre himself isn't so happy.

Cage, Kidman join Trespass team

Nicolas Cage is teaming up with Nicole Kidman for Joel Schumacher's next film Trespass. The action thriller revolves around the aftermath of a home invasion. IMDB.COM

There goes first choice

he first glimpse of Brolin Iosh scarred comic book bounty hunter Jonah Hex reveals it is a role he was born to play. His natural bad boy swagger shines through the character's heavy make up but Brolin wasn't the first choice to play the character, or even the second. As is so often the case in Hollywood many other actors were first considered for the part.

part.
California surf boy

was approached, as was indie film darling Emile

In the end, Brolin brought that extra something special that made the role his, and joined a long list of actors who weren't the first choice to headline big movies.

Many actors have played

Many actors have played James Bond but a recent JamesBondwiki.com poll anoints Sean Connery as the two-to-one people's favourite.

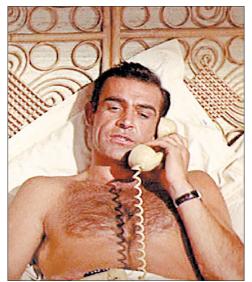

Guess what? He wasn't the first choice.

Author Ian Fleming partially modelled the Bond character on Cary Grant, so the suave actor was topof-the-list when the first Bond film, Dr. No, was cast. Grant, however, sent his regrets, saying he was too old to play the spy.

When Connery was cast,

When Connery was cast, the writer was less than pleased.

"He's not exactly what I had in mind," said Fleming, who felt Connery was too "unrefined" for the role. He later changed his mind and Connery went on to play Bond in six movies.

Connery was the first choice to play Gandalf in The Lord of the Rings series but said no. "I didn't understand the script when they sent it to me," he said. "Bobbits? Hobbits?"

New Line apparently wanted him so badly they offered him a huge chunk of the of worldwide box office receipts. That "no" cost him almost $400 million.

Many other movies have "settled" for second choices. Pretty Woman director Garry Marshall courted Molly Ringwald and Daryl Hannah, who said no because she felt it denigrated women, before casting Julia Roberts.

Can you imagine The Matrix without Keanu Reeves? Apparently the Wachowski Brothers could as they offered the role of Neo to Will Smith first. Smith declined, opting to make the box office disaster Wild Wild West instead, but says he has no regrets.

"I would have absolutely messed up The Matrix. At that point I wasn't smart enough as an actor to let the movie be — whereas Keanu was."

Josh Brolin plays the title character in Jonah Hex.

Stick to the comic book

Jonah Hex

Director: Jimmy Hayward Stars: Josh Brolin, Megan Fox, John Malkovich

NED EHRBAR Metro World News

The best part of Jonah Hex—where the movie really becomes fun—is during a brief sequence at the beginning when a bulk of backstory for Hex (Josh Brolin) is told using animation similar to the comic book on which the movie is based.

That's a really long way of saying go read the comic, and skip this loud, clumes super-western clumsy super-western.

The story follows Hex, who developed mystical powers after some Native Americans saved him from the grave, enlisted by President Ulysses S. Grant (Aidan Quinn) to stop Quentin Turnbull (John Malkovich), a former Confederate officer who's hilariously presented as the country's first terrorist.

As lots of dialogue and unnecessary narration reminds us, the mission's personal for Hex, since Turnbull killed his wife and son.

Lots of time and effort was put into getting the massive scars covering half of Hex's face right, which must be why so much of Brolin's screen time is spent in close-ups shot to highlight it.

Perhaps they should've spent a bit more time and effort on making sure he could speak clearly through all the prosthetic work. At one point, Hex dispatches a bad guy and delivers what we have to assume is a witty one-liner. The problem is it's unintelliorible ligible.

The real tragedy is the amount of acting talent involved, including Brolin, Malkovich and Michael Fassbender (a breakout in Inglorious Basterds).

Megan Fox can't really be faulted, as she's barely in the movie and has very little to do but scowl and heave her chest when she is there. The cast is definitely having fun with the material, but that fun doesn't extend to the audience, unfortunately.

Wainwright album carries voice of late mom

NEW MUSIC Martha Wainwright's new album is a tribute to one singing legend but it is also imbued with the voice and influence of another, her mother Kate McGarrigle.

McGarrigle, who died in January, provided backup vocals and accordion on "Sans fusils, ni souliers, a Paris: Martha Wain-wright's Piaf Record," which was recorded last summer and released this

Her mother even helped pick the songs.

"She was absolutely involved in the album,"
Wainwright said in an interview with The Canadian Press.

"She was there for the whole time and driving me nuts. But I knew she needed to be there and I needed for her to be there because I've always been guided by my mother artistically."

The CD is dedicated to McGarrigle and is one of the final times she performed with her daughter.

They were last on stage together at the family's annual Christmas concert in December 2009, a month before McGarrigle died of cancer.

Wainwright, who is a new mom herself, speaks with quiet pride when asked what it was like to work with her mother on the album.

"At the time she was already pushing herself as hard as she could," she said of the recording sessions. "It was just watching somebody give completely of themselves, which is what Piaf did and what I hope to do as well."

Gord Downie's new album is called The Grand Bounce.

Interesting releases for summer 2010

ow that the first day of summer is almost here (7:28 a.m. on Monday!), it's time to look at some releases that could prove interesting.

Gord Downie

The Grand Bounce (Out now): Easily the best thing he's done outside of the Tragically Hip. Unabashedly Canadian and summery. this is a CD that should be played around a lot of campfires this summer.

Foals

Total Life Forever (Out Now): Wondering about the song in the promo for season seven of Entourage? It's Spanish Sahara from their second al-

Sleigh Bells

Treats (Out Now): An interesting combination of noise and pop that sold more than 21,000 albums through iTunes in just three weeks.

Stone Temple Pilots

S/T (Out Now): Loaded with hooks and that STP guitar crunch, this record was a real pleasant sur-prise. Maybe this second

Two Door Cinema Club Tourist History (Out
now): Imagine a smoother sounding Franz Ferdinand and from Northern Ireland instead of Scotland. When I first heard the single I Can Talk, it stayed in my head for days.

Stars

The Five Ghosts (Tuesday): One of the prettiest records I've heard so far this year comes from this Montreal band and Broken Social Scene associates. Their pre-release cross-Canada club tour in May sold out immediately which tells you something about the anticipation for this CD.

Delphic

Acolyte (June 29): I've been raving about the smooth, dance-y indie-tronica from these Manchester guys for almost a year now. Songs like Doubt and Counterpoint deserve to be heard by as many people as possible.

Arcade Fire

The Suburbs (Aug. 3):
Easily one of the most anticipated albums of the year, indie or major. Did I mention they're playing Madison Square Garden this summer?

Disturbed

Asylum (August): The fifth album from this Chicago band has already been preceded by a single called Another Way to Die. Singer David Draiman: "No songs about puppy dogs or rainbows here."

The Trouble with Angels (August): If the lead single The Inevitable Relapse is any indication Richard Patrick may have regained the mojo that he lost sometime in the late

Brandon Flowers

Flamingo (September): The Killers front dude an incurable workaholic, apparently — has a solo album coming this fall while the rest of the band takes a break. Listen for a lead single called Crossfire.

Behind the scenes at the MMVAs

KEITH CARMEN for Metro Canada

The MuchMusic Video Awards are ready to take over Toronto this weekend. But have you ever wondered what it takes to bring viewers one evening of spectacular musical revelry? How about a year's worth of blood, sweat, tears, revised schedules, meetings, permits and more headaches than a migraine convention.

Such are the lives of Sheila Sullivan and Neil Staite, MMVA organizers for the past decade. we're air Sunday, gawking at cohost Milev 9 p.m. on Cvrus and watching per-MuchMusic by formances Ke$ha, Drake and Justin Bieber, this duo is breathing sighs of relief at seeing the past 12 months come to fruition.

In fact, before the lights cooled down after last year's MMVAs, Sullivan and Staite were already organizing this successor, attaining artists, sourcing local equipment suppliers, budgeting staff, re-routing streetcars and garnering the inevitable permits/policing an event of such magnitude necessitates.

"Planning starts the day after the MMVAs," notes Sullivan in the midst of a dazzling dance of riggers, materials and props that overtake the parking lot at MuchMusic. "We immediately hold a postmortem on last year's show, seeing what worked, what didn't and how we can

'The Spatula.'"

Turning attention to two more aspects, Staite notes that the popular red carpet ceremony has been relocated to MuchMusic's side entrance in order to allow for yet another stage to overtake the infamous intersection at Queen and John streets.

Moreover, in order to ensure those at home aren't left out, VJ Liz Trinnear will host the online-exclusive backstage Digital Lounge, she quips will "have a bit of everything. I'll be talking to bands on-camera, blogging, tweeting, texting and on my phone."

Sun TV News sought Mercer

headline on the Rick Mercer Report — political satirist turns down top job at Fox News North.

But it's no joke. The proposed specialty news channel Sun TV News made a play to make Rick Mercer the cornerstone of its prime-time lineup, the comic said, and confirmed he had a meeting with Kory Teneycke, the newlyhired Quebecor vice president.

Teneycke, who less than a year ago was Prime Minister Stephen Harper's director of communications, was hoping to steal CBC's top-rated Rick Mercer Report.

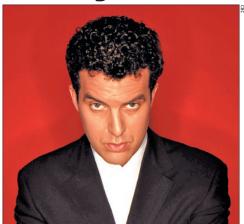

port.

"He called me up and we went for a drink." recalled Mercer. The meeting took place "a while ago" and Mercer chose to keep mum about his knowledge of the proposed news venture.

"They were a very stealth operation," he said. "Because they had offered me a job basically I felt obligated to keep my mouth shut. Maybe that was their plan!"

The Rick Mercer Report has been eyed by rival broadcasters in the past. Seen as a crown jewel of Canadian content, it is a consistent ratings winner coming off its seventh and most popular season.

When it came down to

Sun TV News, the proposed specialty news channel, tried to lure Rick Mercer into bringing his highly successful CBC show Rick Mercer Report to the network being dubbed 'Fox News North.' Mercer said he has decide to remain at the CBC.

it, Mercer chose to stay with CBC.

"Since we're talking about a conservative television network, I'll quote a great conservative and say I decided to 'dance with the one that brung me," he said, borrowing a phrase from former prime minister Brian Mulroney.

While he was "very intrigued by this notion of starting a new network," Mercer ultimately felt he had no reason to jump.

"As an independent producer, I'm very happy with my relationship with the CBC," he said, "but, like anybody, you always hear people out."

Mercer is a fan of one of the station's early hires, former Global Ottawa correspondent David Akin. He's also pals with outspoken Western-based conservative pundit Ezra Levant and thinks he'd make a good addition to the service — provided Quebecor knows what it's getting into.

"I hope Ezra catches the world on fire with his smile and his charm — for five or ten hours a week," Mercer said. THE CANADIAN PRESS single women of a certain age, portrayed by an ensemble that includes Betty White.

Hot in Cleveland, which debuts this week on TV Land, is not officially The Golden Girls redux. But the similarities don't end with the set up. Just as White shared top billing with three golden character actresses, she now works with another trio of established comedy veter-ans: Valerie Bertinelli (One Day at a Time); Jane Leeves (Frasier); and Wendie Malick (Just Shoot Me!).

When this script came across your desks and they said it would be on TV Land, did you think, "Huh?"

Bertinelli: Goodness. When I first heard about it, Betty was already set.

When I first heard about this, I thought, "the new millennium's Golden Girls."

Malick: Silver. The Silver Girls.

What do you think of that, Betty? Do you think this is the next generation's Golden Girls?

White: I think it's chemistry no matter what the age I think age is the bottom rung. I don't think age half, and I'm still working my tail off.

How is the chemistry different here than it was on The Golden

White: It doesn't differ that much. It is a team effort. These girls all work together. There is never, "How many lines do you have?"

Bertinelli: We are all trying to get rid of our lines, usually.

(To Bertinelli, Leeves and Malick): These three women are really going through a mid-life crisis, all of them. Betty, have you already gone through that?

White: I don't know where that breaking point comes. When I started, you just assumed no one knew how old you were. I was, like, 22, and would walk out in front of the studio audience to greet them and they would say, "How old are you?" And I would say, "47," thinking that was old and they would know I wasn't 47. Well, all of a sudden you go from not wanting people to know how old you are to ... "Hi, I'm Betty White. I'm 88 and a half." It is a bragging thing now.

Hot in Cleveland debuts Wednesday on TV Land.

New doc drills into gas industry

TELEVISION What do you do when a gas company offers nearly $100,000 US for the right to drill on your land?

If you're Josh Fox, you refuse the money — then make an award-winning documentary portraying the natural gas industry as an environmental menace that ruins water, air and lives.

In Gasland, premiering Monday on HBO, Fox presents a frightening scenario in which tens of thousands of drilling rigs take over the landscape, gas companies exploit legal loopholes to inject toxins into the ground and residents living nearby contract severe, unexplained illnesses.

Boyle to oversee 2012 Olympics opening ceremony

Tuesday.

Danny Boyle, the Oscarwinning director of Slumdog Millionaire, will oversee the opening ceremony of the 2012 London Olympics.

Boyle was introduced Thursday as the artistic director of the ceremony to be held on July 27, 2012. The announcement was made in the shadow of the new 80,000-seat Olympic stadium in east London that will host both the opening and closing of the games.

Boyle won the best-director Academy Award in 2009 for Slumdog Millionaire, a film that won a total of eight Oscars. His other films include Trainspotting, 28

Days Later and Sunshine.

"It's a fantastic responsibility," Boyle said. "When they offered us the job, they said, 'Do you want to think about it?' I said, 'No, I want to do it."

Another Hollywood director, Stephen Daldry, will be one of the executive producers of the opening and closing ceremonies. Daldry directed Billy Elliott, The Reader and The Hours.

The other executive producers of the ceremonies are Beijing Games designer Mark Fisher, television director Hamish Hamilton and Catherine Ugwu, who helped produce the 2006 Asia Games in Doha, Qatar.

Danny Boyle.

London will have a hard act in trying to top the extravagant opening ceremony of the 2008 Beijing Olympics, which was designed by Chinese movie director Zhang Yimou and drew a worldwide television audience of one billion people.

"It's not going to be like Beijing in terms of this overwhelming scale," said Boyle, who was speaking at 3 Mill Studios, the production centre for the London 2012 ceremonies team. "It'll be more modest than that, but our job is to make sure that within those means it's spectacular as well and that it delivers a thrilling welcome to the opening of the games."

Musical take on Star Wars

IAN GORMLEY for Metro Canada

Anthony Daniels has worn many hats over his 36-year career — appearing on stage, in radio, tel-evision and film. But, none has managed to eclipse the gold C-3PO mask he first donned back in 1976, when the British actor accepted the part of an etiquette-obsessed protocol droid in Star Wars.

Despite reprising the role five more times on film - and in countless spin-offs and tie-ins — Daniels says that it wasn't until his current stint working on Star Wars: In Concert, that he "truly gets" fans' obsession with the Star Wars universe.

"All these years, I've been slightly distanced from it," he says. "Star Wars in Concert has absolutely put the story in perspective to me.'

THOSE ADORABLE KIDS HAVE ALL TURNED OUT SO WELL, HAVEN'T THEY? It seems Chris Klein was more than just a little intoxicated when he was arrested for driving under the influence earlier this week. The actor's blood alcohol tested at .20 during a Breathalyzer test, sources tell TMZ. The legal limit in California is .08. The arrest marks Klein's second DUI in six years. The American Pie star also reportedly had a dog with him in the car, which was later retrieved by a friend, according to the website.

Klein was arrested early Wednesday on suspicion of drunken driving after he was spotted weaving across lanes on a Southern California highway, authorities said.

A request comment was left with Klein's agent and his manag-
